

Contents

When I Was Born a Dog Started Barking in the Hall of the Maternity Ward
You're the angel . . .	9
How I started shouting in my sleep . . .	19
Girl with a Pearl Earring . . .	26
What will Allende's mom say . . .	34
No schlafen . . .	41
The kid never panics . . .	50
That nothing would ever happen . . .	61
My dummy dear . . .	76
If you can see it's a car, tell me . . .	85
When someone gets really scared . . .	96
The sky is beautiful when you're upside down . . .	107
You're funny, be funny for us again . . .	115
When I die, you'll see how many better people there are . . .	126
I beg you, don't let her jump . . .	137
Mom sighed like Marija in the village of Prkosi . . .	152
Would you care for some rose jelly? . . .	163
The violet fig . . .	174
A castle for Queen Forgetful . . .	190

That we all have one more picture together . . . 202

Where dead Peruvians live . . . 209

Mama Leone . . . 215

That Day a Childhood Story Ended

Here where squirrels die . . . 227

Away, I'd rather sail away . . . 236

Ho freddo, ho molto freddo . . . 250

Like a little girl and an old dog . . . 256

Bethlehem isn't far . . . 267

It was then I longed for Babylonian women . . . 280

Look at me, Anadolka . . . 292

I want you to go, now . . . 303

A Little Joke . . . 313

Nora, like Ibsen's . . . 320

Death of the president's dog . . . 328

The second kiss of Gita Danon . . . 342