CONTENT:

INTRODUCTION 13

1. MARKETING: THE BASICS 15
- 1.1. Defining marketing 15
- 1.2. History and origins of marketing 17
  - 1.2.1. History and significant years for marketing development 19
  - 1.2.2. Marketing development stages 22
  - 1.2.3. Production and marketing orientation 22
  - 1.2.4. Stages of marketing development and ethics in marketing 24
- 1.3. Marketing, psychology and other sciences 25
- 1.4. Marketing and the environment 28
- 1.5. Market and marketing planning 31
- 1.6. Marketing strategies, marketing mix 33
  - 1.6.1. Marketing mix strategy, 4P 33
  - 1.6.2. Changing the 4P concept into 4C 37
- 1.7. Marketing brainstorming 38
- 1.8. Marketing and internet marketing 40
- 1.9. Creative marketing today 42
  - 1.9.1. Guerrilla marketing 46
- 1.10. People who deal with marketing 51

2. MARKETING PSYCHOLOGY 55
- 2.1. Defining marketing psychology and its goals 55
- 2.2. Mind mapping of marketing psychology 57
- 2.3. Definition and importance of psychology in marketing 59
- 2.4. Color psychology in marketing and creativity 61
  - 2.4.1. Colors in marketing through examples 63
- 2.5. Motives and needs 64
  - 2.5.1. Motives 64
  - 2.5.2. Motivational cycle 65
  - 2.5.3. Needs- Maslow's theory of needs 66
- 2.6. The impact of the marketing mix on people as consumers 69
  - 2.6.1. Product, brand and product life cycle 69
  - 2.6.2. A service 72
  - 2.6.3. A Price 73
  - 2.6.4. Distribution Channel 74
- 2.7. Promotion, promotional mix 75
- 2.8. Creativity of social networks 83

3. MANAGEMENT FUNDAMENTALS 89
- 3.1. Management science 89
- 3.2. Management theories - the developmental path of management theory 91
  - 3.2.1. Classical theories 92
  - 3.2.2. Neoclassical or behavioral theories 95
  - 3.2.3. Quantitative theory 96
  - 3.2.4. Contemporary theories - Situational approach to management 97
  - 3.2.5. Contemporary theories- System approach- General system theory 97

3.2.6. Theory Z 99
3.2.7. Management Excellence 100
3.3. Defining management 100
3.3.1. Mind mapping of management 101
3.4. The emergence of management 102
3.5. Managers and types of managers 102
3.5.1. Managers' tasks and characteristics 105
3.6. Entrepreneurship and entrepreneurial spirit 108
3.7. Leadership 111
3.8. Human resource management 114
3.8.1. Human rights 115
3.8.2. Discrimination and manipulation 116
3.8.3. Employee motivation, motivation theories 118
3.8.4. The importance of HR professionals and their role in companies 120

4. MAN AS A PERSON 123
4.1. General theories of personality 123
4.2. Defining personality through psychology and sociology according to some theorists 124
4.2.1. Freud's psychoanalytic theory of personality 124
4.2.2. Personality psychology according to the Gordon Allport and Alfred Adler's theory 127
4.2.3. Alfred Adler 128
4.3. Philosophical concept of personality 129
4.3.1. Personality theory according to Friedrich Hegel 129
4.3.2. Personality theory according to Friedrich Nietzsche, Martin Heidegger and Jean Paul Sartre 130
4.4. Defining personality 132
4.4.1. Man as a person and his attitude towards society 132
4.4.2. An individual as a person 133
4.4.3. Personality Traits of human beings 135
4.4.4. Personality types 136
4.4.5. Conflicts, frustrations and defense mechanisms 137
4.5. Factors and personality development 139
4.5.1. Factors and personality development 139
4.5.2. Personality development 143
4.6. Personality structure 146
4.7. Ways of self-concept and cognition of other people 152
4.7.1. Cognition of other people 154
4.7.2. Self-concept 156
4.8. Nowadays techniques for working on personality change 156

5. CONSUMERS AND THE MARKET 161
5.1. Consumer as a person in the marketing field 161
5.2. Risks that consumers are exposed to during the purchase and purchase stages 165
5.2.1. Purchase risks 165
5.2.2. Purchase stages 166
5.2.3. Product characteristics 168
5.3. Consumer satisfaction 169

5.4. An important role of female population in the purchasing process in marketing 171
5.4.1. The position of female population in the buying process in the strategy of modern marketing 175
5.5. The therapeutic effect of shopping 177
5.6. Factors that affect consumer purchasing decisions 179
5.6.1. Classification of external and internal factors 179

6. MARKET SEGMENTATION AND MARKET RESEARCH 185
6.1. Factors that influence consumers through market segmentation and target groups 185
6.2. Mental functions of personality 190
6.3. Market research analysis 193
6.3.1. Decision making under uncertainty - matrix game 195
6.3.2. A concrete example of a market research model - matrix games 196
6.3.3. Decision-making under condition of certainty-mathematical programming 201
6.3.4. Decision-making under risk - statistical methodology 202

7. PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT AND SUCCESSFUL MARKETING AND MANAGEMENT THROUGH NEW TECHNIQUES 207
7.1. Motivation and work on yourself 207
7.2. Psychology, motivation and modern psychology 210
7.3. Rational and spiritual work on ourselves and goals 211
7.4. Personality development techniques and their application in business systems 214
7.5. Marketing sector organization and cooperation of marketing and management with a focus on man 218
7.6. Raising individual and collective awareness 221
7.7. The best realities of life 225

LITERATURE 229

BIOGRAPHY JANA ALEKSIĆ 232