

CONTENTS

PART I

Chapter

I. The Castle of Thunder-ten-Tronckh	page 1
II. Running the Gauntlet	4
III. Escape into Holland	6
IV. Pangloss on the Pox	9
V. The Death of the Anabaptist	12
VI. An Auto-da-fé	15
VII. Cunégonde Re-found	16
VIII. Cunégonde's Story	19
IX. Deaths of the Jew and the Inquisitor	22
X. Embarkation for the New World	24
XI. The Old Woman's Story—I	26
XII. The Old Woman's Story—2	29
XIII. The Governor of Buenos Aires	33
XIV. Flight to Paraguay	35
XV. The Jesuit Baron	39
XVI. The Girls and the Monkeys	41
XVII. El Dorado—I	45
XVIII. El Dorado—2	48
XIX. The Dutch Shipmaster	54
XX. Martin the Manichæan	59
XXI. The Nature of Mankind	62
XXII. A Rich Stranger in Paris	64
XXIII. 'To Encourage the Others'	75
XXIV. Paquette and Friar Giroflée	77
XXV. Senator Pococurante	81
XXVI. Supper with Six Kings	87
XXVII. Voyage to Constantinople	91
XXVIII. The Galley-slaves' Stories	95
XXIX. Cunégonde Found Again	98
XXX. Philosophy on the Propontis	99

PART II

Original Introduction to Part II

page 107

Chapter

I. Candide Sets Out Again	109
II. The Hospitable Persian	112
III. A Favourite of the Sophi	115
IV. Candide Loses a Leg	118
V. Governor Candide	120
VI. Candide's Seraglio	121
VII. Zirza's Story	124
VIII. The Abbé Again	127
IX. Candide is Disgraced	130
X. Pangloss and the Officer	133
XI. Candide and the Lapp Wife	135
XII. The Newtonians and The Parricide	137
XIII. Zenoida's Story	142
XIV. The Wooing of Zenoida	145
XV. Volhall Intervenes	148
XVI. The Jealous Cunégonde	150
XVII. Candide Meditates Suicide	153
XVIII. The End of Pangloss	156
XIX. The Last of Cunégonde	158
XX. 'Everything is Not Too Bad'	162