

See what the experts are saying about this pioneering new "bible" for men and women contemplating a career move in today's uncertain economy:

IN SEARCH OF THE PERFECT JOB

“In Search of the Perfect Job is a gold mine. It is by far the most complete, practical book for job seekers. For anyone who can't afford $20,000 outplacement counseling, In Search of the Perfect Job is the next best thing.”

—Bradford D. Smart, Ph.D., President, Smart & Associates, Inc., and author of The Smart Interviewer

“The executive or professional who has never had to really look for a job is the one who will benefit most . . . The use of actual forms and a format that causes discipline in searching will help people find jobs worthy of them.”

—Philip B. Crosby, Chairman, Career IV, and author of Quality is Free and Leading: The Art of Becoming an Executive

“Finally, into the costly and taxing world of job changing comes a truly self-help 'cookbook' for the person who does not receive corporate-paid professional career consulting, but experiences the outcome of downsizing, mergers, or acquisitions! Dave and Clyde have condensed their expertise into a real guide book for the person who wants to get on with their life. This is one for everyone's bookshelf because no one ever knows when future events will affect them! Being prepared for tomorrow will help you to be even more successful today!”

—Douglas M. Brown, President, DMB Company,
Management Consultants

“In searching for the next career, you helped me focus on the joy, not just the job. There is no greater reward than to experience real joy in working.”

—Edward Simon, President, Computerland International

Cover Design: Richard Adelson

ISBN 0-07-038881-4

9 780070 388819

90000

McGraw-Hill, Inc.
Serving the Need for Knowledge
1221 Avenue of the Americas
New York, NY 10020