No Advertorials

At Modern Design Magazine we're passionate about researching, producing and publishing articles about the cutting-edge design and innovative technology that are changing the way we live, and to share that passion with our readers. We are totally committed to disseminating honest, unbiased information and will remain true to our readers and our principles by never compromising journalistic integrity. That's why, although we don't want to ruffle any feathers, our policy is and always will be not to publish advertorials and we stand resolutely by that decision.
