The EC's Phare and Tacis Information Centre has been opened by the former Directorate General for External Relations: Europe and the New independent States, Common Foreign and Security Policy and External Service (DG1A) to respond more effectively to the increasing requests from both the business community and other interest groups.

The Centre's aim is to centralise all essential information about the Phare and Tacis programmes. Personal assistance is on hand with staff trained to help answer your questions, together with documentation and Internet access.
