

Acknowledgments

I wish to thank my darling wife, Nita, known also as my better half, corporate buddy, main squeeze, partner in crime, and overall the best companion I have ever known. You truly are a gift from above! To JC for again talking and walking with (and sometimes carrying) me when you were the only one that could help.

I also wish to thank the McGraw-Hill production staff for their outstanding efforts in preparing the manuscript for production. Thanks go to Lisa Wolters-Broder for handling the many details of chapter preparation and to Emma Acker for coordinating the book process. Special thanks to Franny Kelly, my acquisitions editor, for managing the Osborne UNIX series and coordinating the fine art of book publishing. Thanks also to John Tiso for reviewing the manuscript and providing critical feedback. Thanks to Jim Minatel for adding important book elements to the chapters! Finally, special thanks to Sam Yu for reviewing elements of the manuscript.
